"When it comes to executive coaching, Brad is simply the best. He understands that people at that level in their career need to work through issues themselves. He acknowledges this by truly coaching and never telling. Having been coached by Brad, I can say that it is much more rewarding, (and sustaining), to have someone with a high level of EQ coach you to the best solution. He asks such thought-provoking questions. These questions allow you to look at the angles of an issue you've never considered. Brad is an excellent coach and I recommend him highly for those wanting to advance in their career and in life!"
